Cats at War

When people went to war, cats went too.

Its a little known fact that cats and even kittens accompanied men and women into the fields of battle, both at sea and on land. "War cats" had two important roles: "official mascot" for the regiment, squadron or ship; and "rat catcher", a less glamorous, though no less essential duty.

But whether photographed as a mascot, working cat or adoptee - for often, in the field of battle, cats and kittens were adopted by troops - cats have performed another essential role: raising morale. With their amusing and affectionate behaviour, they helped remind men and women far from Australia of "normal" life, and the comforts of home. The British experience was very similar. As one of the curators of the Imperial War Museum recently said: "It was probably something to do with holding on to a bit of normality... offering a bit of innocence in contrast to the horror around them. Because the one thing they couldn't blame for everything bad that was happening around them was an animal." (Paul Cornish, IWM

Image : The ship's cat off duty, aboard armed merchant ship HMAS Kanimbla, circa 1941 AWM .300848)

In common with our sailors, soldiers, nurses and airmen, many a cute kitty has had its portrait taken. Enjoy this selection of photographs from the Memorial's collection, showing cats at war.

Its thought that the tradition of cats aboard ship arose as far back as ancient Egyptian times, when early mariners saw the usefulness of having a rat and mouse catcher aboard to protect their on board food stores. By the time of the First World War, cats, in common with other animals, were often mascots of not only ships but infantry regiments and Air Force squadrons. Incidentally, British Admiralty records apparently show significant expenditure for the annual maintenance of cats aboard ship to keep rat numbers down. The practice of providing cat-sized hammocks probably originated with the British navy.

Cats have a natural tendency to attach themselves to a place, space or territory and were therefore better suited to ship board life, or as a mascot to an air force base, than to an army regiment likely to be on the move. Even so, many of the Memorial's photographs of cats were taken with infantry and other land based units.

NSW Cat Fanciers' Association Inc.

A naval cat would typically begin as the pet or mascot of one area of a ship, such as the engine room, before finally becoming the official mascot of the whole ship. Some ships, as the Memorial's collection shows, had more than one cat, and sometimes the ship's cat had kittens at sea.

It was thought to be bad luck for the ship's cat to leave the ship, and indeed there is an Australian story of a straying cat whose ship went down. This is the story of Red Lead (left), the black kitten mascot of HMAS Perth.

In January 1942, HMAS Perth, with a crew of over 600 men, was tasked with preventing the Japanese advance across south-east Asia. En route they stopped at Fremantle, where, it is thought, little Red Lead joined the ship. His favourite spot was curled up in the cabin of Hec Waller, the ship's captain.

On 27 February, HMAS Perth joined a fleet of British, Dutch and American ships to stop a Japanese naval convoy from landing on the island of Java. The allied fleet was outnumbered; its ships were picked off by Japanese planes and the heat of battle sent Red Lead to hide in his favorite place till Perth withdrew, and returned to safe harbour. It is reported that while at harbour, Red Lead tried to leave the ship, no less than three times. But in each instance he was spotted "deserting", was intercepted, and returned to his post. The ship's log for the day read: "Red Lead, ship's kitten, endeavoured to desert, but was brought back on board, despite vigorous protests."

Several of Perth's crew observed this and were dismayed, seeing Red Lead's escape attempts as a bad omen for their future.

Very sadly, Red Lead's instinct was proven. The next day, HMAS Perth and USS Houston sailed for the south coast of Java and met a large fleet of Japanese ships. After a desperate battle, the Perth was sunk. Over 350 men, including Captain Waller, and one little black kitten, were lost.

The Australian War Memorial's sculpture gardens contain "Animals in War", a memorial dedicated to service of those who "had no choice". The sculpture memorial was a joint project between the Australian War Memorial and the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (RSPCA). In 2014 the Memorial held a special service to commemorate Australia's service animals.

Cat (and Dog) Treats to Make

Salmon Cat Treats

1 can salmon, with the liquid
1 cup cooked rice
1 tablespoon melted coconut oil (or other oil of your choice)
¼ cup chopped parsley

Combine all of the ingredients in a bowl. Roll into small balls and freeze. Take out enough for 3 days as they will last about this long if kept refrigerated.

Homemade Diabetic Treats

1/2 cup whole wheat flour
2 eggs
1 1/2 cup beef liver, chopped

Place everything in a food processor and mix or mix chopped liver, eggs and flour in a bowl (make sure the liver is well chopped). Bake on a parchment paper lined jelly roll pan at 325 degrees for 15 minutes or until the center is set. Cool and cut with a pizza cutter into pieces. It will be sponge like. Store in the fridge in an airtight container.

2 Ingredient Treats

2 cups whole wheat flour (or oats – ground in a food processor to a flour)
2 (4 oz.) jars of baby food – beef, chicken, turkey, sweet potato, carrots, fruit*

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Mix ingredients together and add extra flour or water to make firm dough. Roll out on a floured surface to about 1/4 inch thick. Cut with cookie cutters or a pizza cutter. Place 1/2 inch apart on a greased cookie sheet and bake for 20-25 minutes. Store in a paper bag. An air tight container will make them soft. *If you have leftover veggies from your own meal, puree them and use them in place of the baby food.

Homemade Cat Treats

1/2 cup whole wheat flour
1/2 cup powdered milk
1/2 cup tuna, packed in oil
1 egg
1/4 cup water

Mix the flour and milk. In a separate bowl, smash up the chunks of tuna and add the egg. Add this mix to the flour mix. Add water a little at a time until it makes a sticky dough. Drop by spoonfuls on a greased cookie sheet about an inch apart. Bake at 350 degrees for about 20-25 minutes

Homemade Dog Bone Treats

2 cups whole wheat flour
1 Tbsp. baking powder
1 cup peanut butter
1 cup skim milk

Mix flour and baking powder. In separate bowl, mix peanut butter and milk. Then add to flour mix. Knead until smooth. Roll out to 1/4 inch thick. Cut into shapes or use a cookie cutter* and place on a greased cookie sheet. Bake at 375 degrees for 20 minutes. *You can roll into balls and flatten with a fork.

Catnip Treats

1 ½ cups flour (I use whole wheat)
1 ½ teaspoons dried catnip
½ cup powdered milk (I use goat's milk)
½ cup water (you can also use reconstituted or canned goat's milk)
2 tablespoons coconut oil (or olive or another oil)
1 tablespoon honey
1 egg

Mix together until dough forms a ball. Knead and roll out to ¼-inch thick. Cut into small, bite size pieces. Bake at 350° for 10-15 minutes.

Cool and store in an airtight jar.

Breed Feature — Burmese by Sue Thomas

A little brown female cat, named Wong Mau (left) was the beginning of the very popular Burmese breed of cat.

She was taken back to America from Burma, where she was mated to a Siamese, because there was no other cat like her, and the Siamese was the closest in type to her. From those early beginnings, the breed was further developed over many years, both in the USA and later in the UK.

The first Burmese in Australia came from the UK in 1957, when a syndicate of four Australians, including Mr Geof Allen of the Amerst Prefix, imported "Tomahawk" and then "Calypso Pallas Athene" (right) into NSW.

The Burmese Cat Society was formed in the 60s and the first specialist show was held in 1968.

Left - Red
Right - Lilac

Today, the popular Burmese is bred in the coat colours of brown (the original), blue, chocolate, lilac, then later along came the reds, creams (called the O gene) and the tortoiseshells – brown tortie, (brown, red & cream) blue tortie (blue & cream) chocolate tortie (chocolate, red & cream) and lilac tortie (lilac and cream). If a red or cream cat is mated with a solid brown, blue, lilac or chocolate, there will be usually some tortoiseshell kittens. Mostly these are female, but occasionally there is produced a male tortoiseshell. It has been a breed partner of the Chinchilla, to produce the Burmilla breed, the British shorthair to produce the Mandalay, and, when crossed with a Siamese, a Tonkinese is produced.

Burmese are very playful, intelligent and affectionate. They usually bestow their loving nature on all family members. They love nothing more than being with their human family. Burmese are not as vocal as a Siamese, but will engage in a chat with you.

They love to follow you around and be part of the action. Burmese enjoy snuggling up in bed with you on a cold winter's night if allowed.

Burmese are excellent with children, and often become the "dress up" cat for a child, and have been found wearing doll's clothes, and taken for a ride in a stroller etc.

NSW Cat Fanciers' Association Inc.

Breed Feature — Burmese (Cont)

Right - Cream

It is not necessary for them to go outside, as they are very happy finding warm or sunny spots around the house to have a nap.

Burmese have no road sense, and sadly, can often be stolen, or be bitten by a snake if they are located near the bush, be poisoned by ticks in their own back yard or chased by dogs if they are outside.

They are medium in size, approximately 2.8 kg – 3.25 kg for a female, and a little heavier for the males. They mostly love being cuddled, or sitting atop your shoulder, and love to sleep with their owners if allowed.

Burmese have a soft close lying glossy coat which is likened to the touch of silk, and with their “heavier than they look” weight, they have been called bricks wrapped in silk. Their coats need very little grooming, just a little comb or brushing weekly will clear out any dead hairs.

Golden yellow to amber eyes, large and lustrous, seem to mesmerise you. The ears are set well apart on their heads. The cat is a medium sized foreign type cat, being not too slender (like the Siamese) nor too thickset (like the British shorthair). It is a graceful elegant cat, with slender legs, and is extremely well muscled. Most breeders sell their kittens at 12 –13 weeks of age, after the kitten has been desexed.

Purpose

This policy is designed to protect the interests of NSW Cat Fanciers Association Inc (NSW CFA), its employees, members and workers (including voluntary workers). To this end, when engaging in social media, NSW CFA expects all persons to consider that they are representatives of NSW CFA and to take responsibility for ensuring that any references to NSW CFA, its activities or its members, are accurate and comply with all of NSW CFA's rules, procedures and codes of conduct.

What is social media?

Social media is online media that allows for interaction and/or participation. It is any online communication or activity where people can share information about, or that might impact on, NSW CFA, its members or members of any affiliated bodies who use our services or participate in any events run by NSW CFA or any of our affiliated bodies. Social Media includes, but is not limited to:

- ✦ Social networking sites – eg Facebook, Twitter, Myspace, Pinterest, LinkedIn, Google Plus, Yammer;
- ✦ Video, slide and photo sharing websites and applications – eg Youtube, Flickr, Slideshare, Instagram, Snapchat, Vine, Tumblr;
- ✦ Blogs, including corporate and personal blogs – eg SharePoint;
- ✦ Microblogging sites – eg Twitter, Tumblr, Wordpress;
- ✦ Wiki's and online collaborations – eg Wikipedia;
- ✦ Forums, discussion boards and groups – eg Google Groups, Facebook Groups, Whirlpool;
- ✦ VOD and podcasting – eg SoundCloud; and Mobile applications and texting.

Who does this policy apply to?

This policy applies to all members, volunteers, employees and exhibitors of NSW CFA.

GUIDELINES

Whenever NSW CFA members, workers (including voluntary workers), employees and exhibitors interact on social media, in either an official or personal capacity, and in relation to activities concerning the cat fancy, the following guidelines must be followed:

- ✦ Ensure that you are aware of who you are representing – it is important that readers of your posts do not misconstrue your personal comments as representing an official NSW CFA position;
- ✦ Abide by the Constitution, Procedures and Codes of Ethics of NSW CFA;
- ✦ Act in a way that falls within community expectations of good and appropriate manners;
- ✦ Be polite and respectful to NSW CFA, its members, employees, workers (including voluntary workers), affiliates and other associated parties – including judges and workers;
- ✦ Do not criticise, disparage, or make derogatory or negative comments about NSW CFA, its members, workers (including voluntary workers), employees, affiliates, domestic or international judges – either expressly or impliedly;
- ✦ Respond to others views respectfully;
- ✦ Do not harass, bully or intimidate;
- ✦ Do not make negative or adverse comments about the exhibits of another exhibitor or member of NSW CFA or any of its affiliates;
- ✦ Obtain written permission from NSW CFA before using the NSW CFA logo or posting any content on a social media platform or using any IT services to make statements or comments on behalf of NSW CFA or which might be construed as representing a position of or view held by NSW CFA;
- ✦ Respect copyright, privacy, financial disclosure and other applicable laws;
- ✦ Obtain permission from a judge prior to videoing judging at a show. Such permission may be by way of a general request prior to the commencement of judging;
- ✦ Obtain written permission from NSW CFA or any judge whose photo or video you plan to publish on social media. Such request and permission may be given by email; and Do not bring NSW CFA into disrepute or otherwise attract negative publicity.

POLICY NON-COMPLIANCE

While social media provides an excellent opportunity to share knowledge, celebrate successes and learn about the cat fancy, misuse of social media can have serious consequences for NSW CFA, its employees, workers (including voluntary workers) and members, and cause considerable distress.

All reports of misuse of social media or contravention of this policy and guidelines will be investigated and disciplinary action may be taken in accordance with the Rules of NSW CFA Inc that relate to disciplinary action.

The Trade Practices Act 1974 came into force on October 1st 1974.

It is the advertiser's responsibility to ensure advertisements submitted for publication comply with the Act and that the provisions of the Act are strictly complied with. In cases of doubt, advertisers are asked to seek legal advice before submitting advertising material.

The Editorial Committee reserves the right to withhold publication of any material whatsoever. Views and opinions expressed in this journal are those of the correspondents and contributors concerned and are not necessarily those of the Editorial Committee, printers or publishers. Names and addresses of correspondents may be withdrawn from publication on request but must be supplied to the Editor.

Disputes

From time to time, members refer matters to the NSW Cat Fanciers Association Inc (NSW CFA) when it is not appropriate.

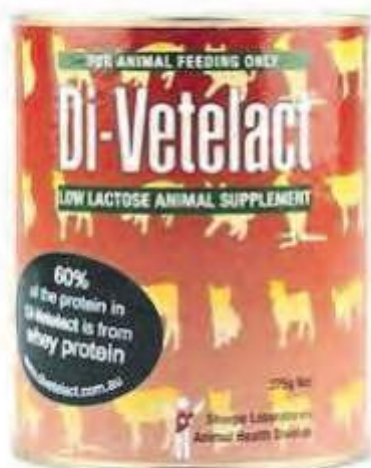

For example, disputes between members in relation to the sale of cats are usually private matters to be determined by the contractual arrangements between members. Disputes on such matters should be resolved by the courts, not by NSW CFA.

Members are requested to refrain from referring matters to NSW CFA which are a private or domestic matter or which should be properly resolved by the Courts.

Members should be aware that the Consumer Claims Tribunal is available to resolve many disputes in the relation to the supply of goods to a consumer and NSW CFA recommends that matters that fall within the jurisdiction of that Tribunal and which cannot be resolved personally should be referred to that Tribunal.
